Giveaways: Peninsula Summer Music Festival tickets, Nina Stanton book, and more

By Kay Stewart
December 9, 2018 — 12.15am

PENINSULA SUMMER MUSIC FESTIVAL

Under the direction of new artistic director, acclaimed oboist Ben Opie, the 2019 festival boasts 26 performances over 13 summer days and nights in unique venues including the Peninsula Hot Springs, Whistlewood Gallery and the Coombe Yarra Valley winery in Coldstream. Send your details to pbptickets@netspace.net.au before midnight tonight and you’ll enter the draw to score one of three doubles to Hair of the Dog: Swing is the Thing – The Furbelows legendary New Year’s Day concert at 3pm at Lindenderry Estate, Red Hill, or one of three doubles to An Evening with Sara Macliver and the Australian Haydn Ensemble at 7pm on Saturday, January 5, at Under the Marquee – St John’s Church, King Street, Flinders. Please select preferred performance when you register.

The Australian Haydn Ensemble will perform at the Peninsula Summer Music Festival in January.

A TEAR IN THE GLASS
Written by Mary Ryllis Clark and published by Anchor Books Australia, A Tear in the Glass follows Nina Stanton’s life journey through the fine and decorative arts. An insightful, informative, and sometimes heartbreaking look into the life of an outstanding professional whose ability to inspire others was a true gift and a reflection of the central passion of a life dedicated to the care and interpretation of objects and the power they hold in transforming people's lives. We have four copies of the beautiful book, illustrated with more than 90 photographs from the Johnston Collection, the elegant house museum in East Melbourne, on offer. Entries received on info@anchorbooksaustralia.com.au before midnight will enter the draw.

ON THE BRINK – A GLASS DECANTER SET

Famous for taking utilitarian product designs to unparalleled new heights, South African artist and designer Carrol Boyes' interest lies in creating three-dimensional, sculptural forms of high-quality tableware and home accessories. In the lead-up to the festive season, we have one of her elegant sculptural figures – seated at a tantalising angle and holding a glass decanter on offer to M readers. Worth $495 it’s ideal for serving a favourite Christmas tipple or as a centrepiece to a Christmas feast. For your chance to win, send your details before midnight tonight to promotions@carrolboyes.com.au.

WINNERS

Christmas Melodies at the Arts Centre: Jessie Worthington, Eva Roten, Leanne Bloomfield, Bernadette Clear and David Cosgriff.

Her Majesty's Theatre, Melbourne: Lance Patterson, Patricia King and Brett Ray.